RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

USPTO Releases Updated TTAB Manual, Announces Signature Updates

The United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) has issued an updated Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB) Manual of Procedure. The updated manual incorporates the most recent precedent from the TTAB, the Federal Circuit, and the federal courts issued between March 2022 and March 2023. The updated manual is available here. The USPTO has also announced the option for attorneys and trademark applicants to use DocuSign, Adobe, and similar electronic signature software to sign declarations in the Trademark Electronic Application System (TEAS) and TEAS International. The change took effect July 22, 2023. More information on these changes is available here.

GENERAL NEWS

Crocs Accuses Former Manager of Stealing Secrets to Start Competitor

Crocs has sued a former midlevel manager for allegedly downloading its trade secrets to a USB drive before departing the company to start a Crocs competitor, Joybees. According to the July 6 complaint, Joybees' CEO Kellen McCarvel knew in 2018 that his father, a former Crocs CEO, would purchase and rebrand USA Dawgs Inc. out of bankruptcy and hatched a plan to start Joybees using Crocs' information. McCarvel became CEO of USA Dawgs in November 2018. Crocs brought claims for trade secret misappropriation, civil theft, and unjust enrichment against Joybees and McCarvel. It also brought a claim for breach of contract against McCarvel. The suit parallels an ongoing lawsuit between Crocs and Joybees over Joybees' alleged infringement of Crocs' intellectual property. In that suit, Joybees recently filed counterclaims accusing Crocs of "stifling competition" and "monopolistic, anticompetitive and exclusionary conduct" in violation of the Sherman Act.

Complaint, Crocs Inc. v. Joybees LLC (D. Colo. July 6, 2023) (No. 1:23-cv-01719)

Nike Scores TTAB Win over SNKRS Trademark

The Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB) reversed a trademark examiner's rejection of Nike Inc.'s application to register the mark SNKRS, which Nike uses with its online platform for selling shoes. The examiner had rejected the mark as a generic term for shoes, reasoning that it was phonetically equivalent to the word "sneakers." The TTAB disagreed, finding that the mark was descriptive, not generic, and that Nike could thus seek trademark protection if it could establish the mark's distinctiveness. Citing Nike's use of the mark since 2015 and the more than 10 million customer orders through its SNKRS platform since 2019, the TTAB found that the mark had obtained sufficient distinctiveness to be a trademark. The ruling clears the way for the mark's publication.

Decision, In re Nike Inc. (TTAB July 31, 2023) (App. No. 88/781,464)

Ralph Lauren Settles “Gervin” Trademark Suit

Designer brand Ralph Lauren has settled the trademark infringement suit filed by NBA All Star George Gervin, prompting the brand to apologize for using the athlete’s name in connection with its “Gervin Mid” sneakers. The settlement comes only a few months after Gervin filed claims accusing Ralph Lauren of using his name without permission to sell shoes styled after the 1970s basketball sneaker that Gervin made famous. The parties purportedly reached a confidential settlement in June, which Ralph Lauren confirmed in its statement apologizing to the NBA star. In that statement, Ralph Lauren announced that the parties had reached a “mutual agreement” and that it “has the utmost respect for Mr. Gervin and his career and apologizes for having used his name in connection with one of its products, without his consent.” The other details of the parties’ agreement remain undisclosed.

LITIGATION

Discomoda Corp. v. Louis Vuitton North America, Inc.
