Tonight the White House released the executive order signed by President Trump on the 25% secondary tariffs on Indian goods, which the President put in place because of India's purchase of Russian oil. The U.S. also released a joint statement with India on the framework for the new U.S.-India tariff agreement.

 Tell me more: On Monday, President Trump announced a new tariff deal with India. The President and White House officials indicated the rate for Indian-made goods will be reduced from 50% to 18%.

- The EO released tonight, Modifying Duties to Address Threats to the United States by the Government of the Russian Federation, removes the added 25% secondary tariffs on Indian products for India's purchase of Russian oil.
- The order states "India has committed to stop directly or indirectly importing Russian Federation oil, has represented that it will purchase United States energy products from the United States, and has recently committed to a framework with the United States to expand defense cooperation over the next 10 years."

Give me the details: This EO provides the implementation language for the added 25% secondary tariffs:

Effective with respect to goods entered for consumption, or withdrawn from the warehouse for consumption, on or after 12:01 a.m. eastern standard time on February 7, 2026, products of India imported into the United States shall no longer be subject to the additional ad valorem rate of duty of 25 percent imposed pursuant to Executive Order 14329.

 What about the reciprocal rate cuts?: We are still waiting for the other executive order and CBP guidance to clarify the details on the rest of the tariff agreement.
